DECLARATION

Expeditions are not holidays. Journeys can often be long and in cramped conditions. Heat, dust, delays and officialdom can remove the novelty of a new culture and rub the edges off travelling companions. Expeditions do involve a degree of hardship and discipline. The programme can be altered or cancelled for many different reasons.
I understand the above and agree to fulfil my role within the group in a responsible way, giving priority to the consideration of others. I agree to submit to the authority of the team leaders, even though I may not understand the reasoning for their decisions.

MEDICAL DETAILS

Our journeys cover a broad range of travel to many areas of the world. Our programmes are created according to the purpose of each trip and terrain of country visited. Some of these journeys therefore, can be physically and emotionally tough. If you answer 'Yes' to any of the questions below, please use an additional sheet to give as much further information as possible. All responses will be treated in confidence.

Please also note, answering 'yes' to any of the questions would not necessarily prevent you from coming on the journey, but it will help us to cater for you and help ensure your safety and that of the team.
